

DANNY REESE

Danny is a multi-faceted artist. He is a singer, drummer, harmonica player and actor. Of these talents he is most remembered as a jazz scat singer. He is blessed to perform for a wide variety of people and places.

Danny uses those musical opportunities to utilize his gift of connecting with people. Danny is a charismatic musical story teller. His interpretation of the classic ballads gives clear understanding of the composers intent for their musical stories.

True to the history of jazz improvisation, Danny gives new meaning to the melodies of the great song writers using rhythm, and the Blues sensibilities that he grew up hearing at home as a child. He gives the listening audience the license to enjoy the music and have fun.

Danny heard Blues most of his time growing up in his family home in Cleveland Ohio. His father was born and raised in Alabama and had a great love for the Blues. Danny not only heard the notes being played on these records, he was also touched by the soul and emotion of the people who sang and played on them.

He could hear the Blues influence from the people who played Jazz. Danny studied violin for a short time in his youth and it became clear that classical music was also an integral part of the composition of Jazz. The obvious interest in Jazz was inevitable.
